procedure of putting out a butane fire, a constant menace in our area, proved to be delicate and tricky. Firemen felt the instruction was invaluable. (Photo by Laura Valkey)

May sponsor Rodeo Float

CV Chamber endorses walkways in Village, CV Road planlines

Support for a float in the Salinas Rodeo Parade was expressed by members of the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce board at last Wednesday's meeting at the CV Golf and Country Club. It was generally agreed that the Chamber should do more of this sort of thing to promote the Valley and this would be an excellent opportunity to advertise the Fiesta.

Hattie Jewett told the board that the Carmel Valley Youth Organization was enthusiastic about having another float in the Saturday night parade after entering the first one last year. She felt that they would be able to accomplish it with much more ease, since they now know the procedures and what was necessary to make an effective entry.

It was also pointed out that if the float were prepared for the Rodeo it would also be available to enter in the Seaside Fourth of July parade and the San Juan Bautista Fiesta Parade.

Treasurer Tom Hefling commented that money had been put aside for the float based on a 100 membership in the chamber. Plans were made to contact the CVYO and Mrs. Jewett agreed to help work out arrangements.

Walkways through the Village, as worked out by the Village Committee under the guidance of Bob Kvenild, were explained to the board. Kvenild asked if the chamber would endorse the proposed idea, but added that nothing would be forced on businesses which did not desire to participate in the program. Letters have been sent to property owners in-involved.

Lou Gardner commented that he didn't know of any place which called itself a business community that did not provide sidewalks of some sort since foot traffic is of vital importance to impulse buying.

Gardner added, "There are very few places where we can walk in the Village without crossing a 'trout stream,' or dodging a bumper or funder. We're not trying to put anyone out of business, and anyone who does not want a walkway doesn't have to have one, but there should be walks on both sides of the street from the Post Office to the Thunderbird."

In answer to Jim Dagelan's query as to why the committee is starting in "the middle" with its plan, Bob Kvenild stated that the area of the former Hitching Post and the Chatterbox Restaurant has been designated by the county as the most hazardous space on the Carmel Valley Road in the Village. He added that the Sheriff's Dept. has said that it can actually issue citations to cars backing out onto Carmel Valley Road, so future plans for parking must be considered.

Kvenild added that there is plenty of room in the right-of-way for a meandering kind of road (around trees) with four feet of walkway on each side and a seven-foot planter in the center similar to Ocean Ave. in Carmel.

Before adjourning the meeting, the chamber endorsed the walkway plan as proposed and also moved to write a letter to Supervisor Willard Branson suggesting that the planlines for a four lane road be put back on the Supervisors' agenda.

NO! YOUR EYES are not playing tricks on you. Tais dos Santos, AFS exchange student, created patterns similar to a Picasso painting as she danced in the strobe light at Friday night's "light show" party at Carmel High School. Appropriately called "The Eyeball," the dance was sponsored by the American Field Service, who transformed the gym with old movies, light projectors, colored oils and slides. Chamber business directory

Preparations are under way for publication of a 1967 Valley business directory by Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Pres. Ken Van Hagen pointed out that only paid-up members of the Chamber will be listed on the directory, which is mailed to Valley residents. All businesses, members or not, were previously included.

"We urge all businesses in the Valley to send in their membership immediately," Van Hagen declared, "so they won't miss being included in the directory."

Meetings on drug problem slated Wednesday, Sunday

All interested citizens, particularly parents of high school or middle school students have been invited to attend the special meeting tonight of the Carmel School Board.

There is only one item on the agenda for the 7:30 meeting, and that is the use of narcotics in the community. The board will meet in Brey Hall of Carmel High School.

The special session has been called for a two-fold purpose of parent education on the narcotics problem among the young people and a discussion of board policy on such matters, according to Superintendent Dr. Harris Taylor.

No decision on board policy has evolved from two executive sessions held on Friday and Sunday with reference to suspension of the five high school boys charged with use and/or possession of narcotics.

A panel discussion will be held Sunday at 7 p.m. at Church of the Wayfarer in Carmel on the narcotics problem among young people. Included on the panel will be Dr. Harris Taylor, Dr. Dan Gornell, school physician, Mr. Baine Smith, teacher at York School and others. A question and answer period will follow.

Little Leaguer opener moved, many give help

Rains have slowed completion of Casey Park, new home of the Carmel Valley Little League, moving the May 6 opening game of the season back to the former field.

When Alexander A. Casey of Carmel Valley's Hilltop Ranch and San Francisco, made the land on Paso Hondo available for the use of the Little League on a dollar-a-year rental basis, a call was issued for volunteers to convert the land into a ball park. The response was enthusiastic.

Many long hours have been put in by members of the Little League organization, fathers of players, and many other public-spirited and sports-minded individuals.

The organization wishes to express public thanks and deep appreciation for all the help. Letters of thanks are being sent, but the Little League organization would like for the community at large to know about their help.

six Valley groups were nominated to benefit from the proceeds. Unanimously the members voted to dedicate the event to the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department in appreciation of the hours of service which have been donated by the men to assist Garden Club members, their families, and Valley friends and neighbors. The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Fire Department have been invited to assist with the sale of tickets, serve as hostesses.

Other committee members of the tour are Sterling Mummert, Hugh Smith, and club president, I.T. Johnson, who are identifying the plants at each garden; Sam Klemek, chairman

Handcrafting sandals provides relaxing work for Carmel man

Photos by Robert Isaacs

Sandals certainly indicate a relaxed appearance, and it was the desire to lead a more relaxed life that led Jim Beeman into his present occupation of sandal-making. Before moving to Carmel in 1963, Jim was a technical engineer with Litton Industries, but worked part time in the San Fernando Valley for Pedro Arturo, top Southern California sandal-maker. His wife, Kay, worked as a school teacher, and they used to vacation in Carmel.

The story is a familiar one... many people who wish to lead a creative life come to Carmel to visit and finally move to Carmel to live and work.

Jim and Kay did this... and started the Sandal Spot, originally located on Lincoln. This year, they moved to the new Del Dono court on Dolores and Sixth.

Jim originally had an art background, having attended Bradley University, studying with Hans Hoffman in Greenwich Village and attending the Fine Arts Center in Colorado Springs. Like a number of creative people who expect to become commercially successful in art, he gravitated to other work and ended up in a technical category instead.

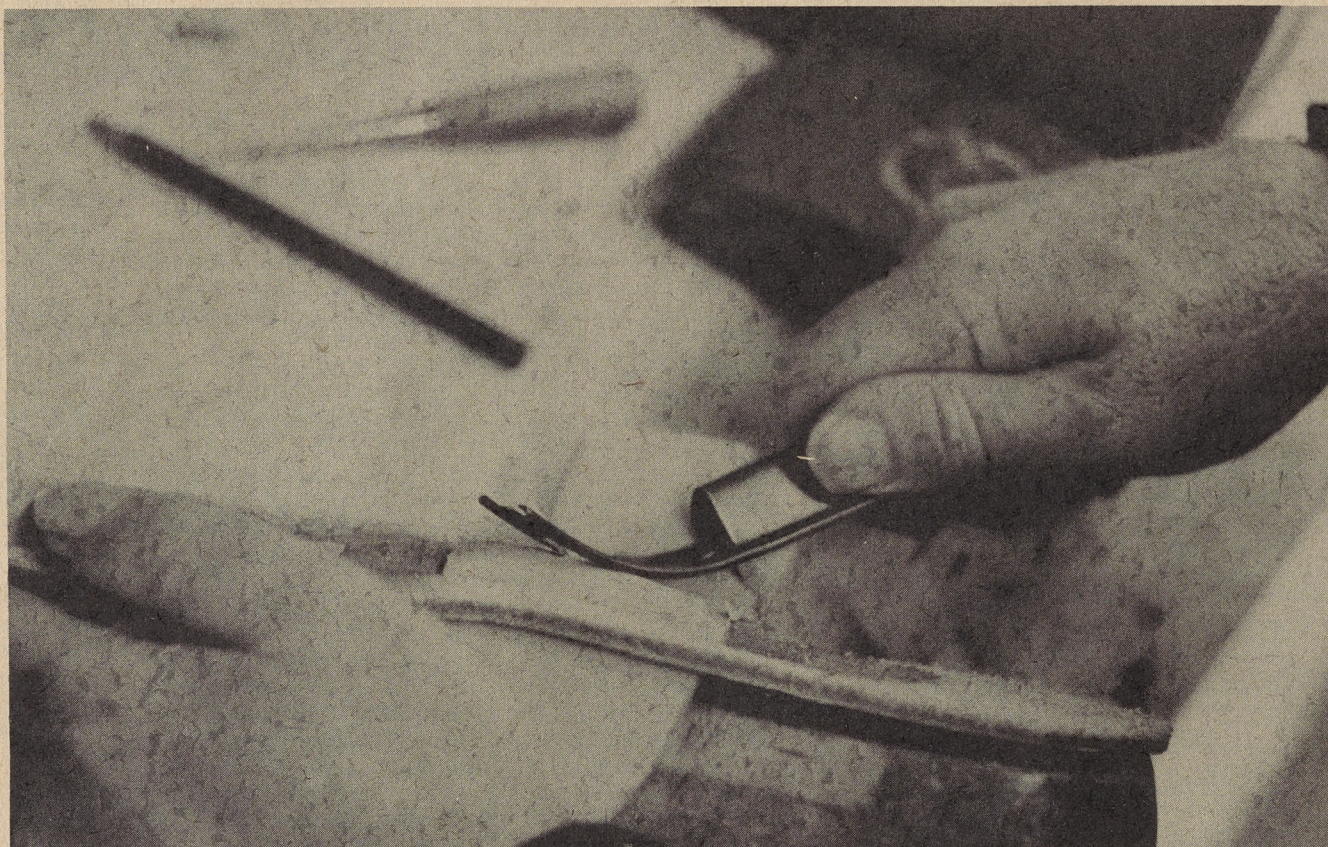

Now, in the workroom, Jim makes an average of about 30 pairs of sandals a month. It takes about three or four hours to complete a pair, if the design has been worked out. The leather used is a very heavy cowhide that looks as if it would last forever. The shop specializes in about 15 different original hand-made designs. It also carries a variety of other sandals which come predominantly from Italy and Mexico. There are also a number of styles which are made elsewhere for the Sandal Spot and then are finished by Jim and his assistant, Louise Simpson.

Kay Beeman joins her husband in working out designs, but he said that doing the bookkeeping is taking a major portion of her time now.

ABOVE—Some of the sandals made by Jim Beeman are completely made in one piece, while others have tie or buckle straps. There are models with rubber soles which would be most appropriate for the weather the Peninsula has been experiencing recently. Here Jim roughens the leather to prepare it for cementing.

AT RIGHT—Using a skiver, Jim tapers the edges to make a smooth transition joint. Shaving the leather in this manner makes it more comfortable instead of an abrupt cut.

Cutting and fitting leather pieces is similar to dressmaking

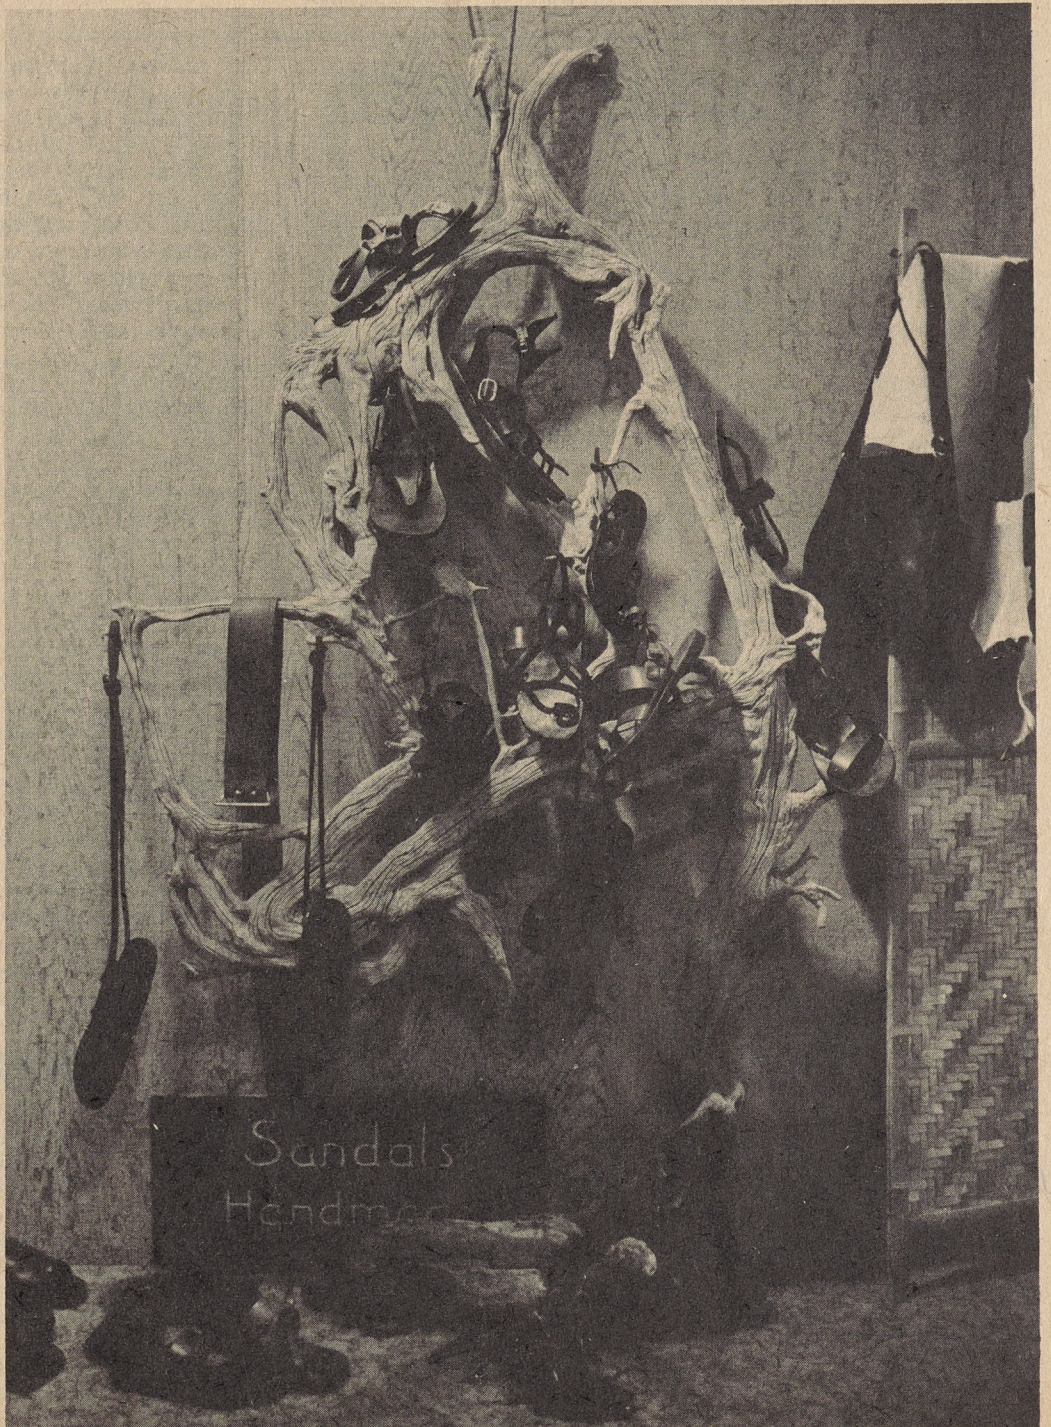

The technique in sandal-making is very similar to that of a dressmaker. Jim cuts the pieces with very heavy shears. The locations are marked for straps, the holes or slits are punched out and pieces fitted together. Joints are fastened with brass or copper rivets or buckles.

Persons ordering the sandals come in for fittings to make sure that each is individually correct. Most of the original hand-made designs sell for $20-$30 in men's sizes. The market for this type is obviously somewhat limited, and made more so by the fact that industry has been attempting to duplicate the "hand-made look" in mass production.

This, Jim feels, is one of the major problems of the craftsman today. It becomes harder to exist as a maker of hand-crafted items as they are copied and made available to the public at costs far below those which must be charged for hand work.

But the smell of leather is a pleasant one in which to meditate and work, and Jim enjoys the easy pace which sandal-making has afforded him.

THE BROWN TONES of the leather are shown to advantage on the pieces of driftwood used as a display stand. About 15 different designs are handcrafted by Jim Beeman in his Carmel shop. Some belts and bags are also made, but this is a very small percentage of the items displayed.

ABOVE—Kay Beeman was a school teacher before they decided to move to Carmel and take up the sandal-making trade as an occupation. Now she assists Jim in the designing and does the bookkeeping for the shop.

AT RIGHT—Louise Simpson measures the dye for finishing the leather. Each piece used in making a sandal is dyed individually before assembling so that if there is any stretch or pull, there will be no ugly undyed areas showing. A number of other sandals are made elsewhere and sent to the shop for finishing and dying.

The Doctor says:

Question: At what age should a woman expect the menopause, and what are the symptoms?

Answer: Recently I saw a youngish looking woman at a check-out counter furiously fanning herself while she complained to me about how hot it was. (It wasn't.) "Oh, come," I said, "you aren't that old!" "You'd be surprised," she replied.

There is no set age for menopausal onset. Occasionally women show characteristic symptoms as early as forty or even younger. The average age is from 45 to 50. The typical symptoms are occasional "hot flashes" or flushes and menstrual irregularity. With some people there are emotional disturbances, such as depressive reactions, unwonted irritability of temper and nervous tensions. An occasional person escapes these unpleasant symptoms altogether and goes through the entire span without a qualm. The emotional reactions depend much upon the temperament of the individual. Some become depressed over the evidences of advancing years.

Question: Can the menopause be avoided in this age of medical miracles?

Answer: Yes, almost completely by proper medical management.

Question: Is treatment desirable or should nature be allowed to take its course?

Answer: There has been much controversy among physicians over this question. But first let's consider what changes occur coincident with the menopause. At this stage of life women deteriorate and age more rapidly. The skin becomes thinner, the bones become porous from loss of minerals, and the stature diminishes, until finally we have the "nice little old lady," inches shorter than formerly. Twenty-six per cent of women in one nursing home survey were found to have collapsed vertebrae on X-ray study. Muscles atrophy and power is lost. Fracture of hips or other bones are common from relatively slight trauma.

The picture is very common. I've often looked at these pathetic, neglected people and thought how different it might have been with good medical care instituted years before, for not much can be done once the changes of old age have fully developed.

The Rhyming Philosopher

My heart is heavy with discontent,
In a cold, hard world with its frigid stare,
Then I strain to be free from imprisonment,
Which illusion results from a muse threadbare.
But whatever the cause there's a cure for care—
I will seek old friends where my mind's at ease,
And the answer comes to my enduring prayer.
Thank God for the boon of such pals as these!

When the brain runs dry as a summer creek,
And a comforting thought is all too rare,
There's an antidote which I run to seek
In a trusty old friend who has laughs to spare,
Though it's better by far if some more are there;
Like the cooling draught of a mountain breeze.
Then it won't take so long to banish despair.
Thank God for the boon of such pals as these!

When I work I work best with friends old and true,
For tasks become pleasures where pleasures are few.
True friendship is love of the higher degrees—
Thank God for the boon of such pals as these!

25 year span in Carmel remembered by councilman

EBEN WHITTLESEY AND REGAN

"In Carmel we are always fighting a rear-guard action against conventional commercialism," Carmel Councilman Eben Whittlesey told The Outlook.

"The town is changing from one that used to be a fairly well balanced self-contained community. We are losing the business and services which people need day-to-day. This is partly because many of them can no longer survive as one-man operations. There is increased business, but it is oriented more toward tourists and visitors, and less toward the resident," he continued.

Remembering the days of Betty Green's Stables and Francis Whitaker's forge and Keith Evans' wood-fuel business, Eben commented, services like this are now provided over the hill.

Eben has been in Carmel long enough to be extremely aware of these changes. He has spent the past 25 years in law practice in the community and is serving his second term on the Carmel City Council. He also served in the capacity of Mayor from 1962-64.

Traversing the streets with his guide dog, Regan, perhaps he has even more of an awareness of the feel of Carmel than those who look at the town day after day.

Eben, a native of New York City, came to the West Coast to attend law school at Stanford. It was after he had established his law practice in Carmel that he lost his sight entirely.

Eben feels the picture of residential areas of Carmel will probably continue much the same, in spite of progress. He feels that the present guest houses will probably stay as they are since the general public does not seem to object to them. These lodging permits were first allowed to help residents on a limited income to survive by taking in lodgers. As long as these present few don't attempt to expand, he feels that there is no reason to put them out of business. But from now on, Eben advocates a tight control kept on the encroachment of commercialism in residential areas.

Commenting on the new police station facility, Eben said, "Their accommodations have been discouraging for years. When you do something new you have to look ahead quite a ways." But one is sure that while the future is taken into account, each of Eben's council decisions is based on past history and how to maintain the Carmel image while progressing.

More communication needed

Words of advice to parents offered by CHS principal

Some thoughtful advice to the community was offered by Warren Edwards last week as he announced his resignation as principal of Carmel High School, effective July 1. After 14 years in that position, he will take over the principalship of the American Academy of Athens, Greece.

"The fine reputation of Carmel schools has been well known for years," he commented. "But it has slipped and I'm not so sure it's the best district in this part of the state any more."

But he pointed out that he feels fewer pangs about leaving because there appears to be an up-swing in education in Carmel. "We have an able superintendent and now that he doesn't have to work on fund-raising enterprises, he can get on with the business of education," he added.

Edwards declared that the quality of schools is in direct relation to the interest and support of the public. These important elements have slipped, he said.

"Some parents fail to realize that good schools don't just happen," Edwards stated. "It takes work."

"Some of us here in Carmel have been quite disturbed these last few years as we have seen a decrease in this amount of commitment and active support of the public schools by the community."

"Hopefully, the results of the override tax reflects a renewed interest in and active support of the public schools," Edwards said.

He stressed the importance of parent participation and concern in their schools. "Parents must transmit opinions regarding education either directly to the schools or through elected board of education members."

"As parents know more and more about the schools, their interest in the schools increases and as a result, their support of the programs of the schools increases. But if parents and the community are apathetic about the schools, the schools very quickly become mediocre."

He deplored the usual tendency for the public to complain and seldom to give constructive criticism or praise when due. "It would help if people would pick up the phone and offer a word of praise, instead of the usual griping."

Edwards added assurance that he wasn't leaving because of unhappiness with the school or district here, but that he felt an urge to try a new and different challenge.

"I have enjoyed the experiences of working with the staff here," he said, "but mostly enjoyed working with the young people."

Warren Edwards to take new position in Greece

It will be the first trip to Europe for Principal Warren Edwards of Carmel High School and family this July when he heads for a new job in Athens, Greece—a fact which makes it more of an adventure than ever.

"I still can't quite believe it!" exclaimed Edwards, contemplating his new job of principal of the American Academy of Athens.

Carmel School District trustees Wednesday night accepted Edwards' resignation with regret. He has been at the high school 15 years, the first year as vice principal and the last 14 as principal.

"I just felt that I needed a new challenge—to move on," he said. "I decided this about a year ago."

The American Academy in Athens is a high school with 750 students, mostly Americans. About half are children of American military or embassy staff; 30% of American businessmen and about 20% other nationalities.

The school is chiefly supported by tuition paid by parents of students, although the U.S. State Dept. helps with buildings.

A State Dept. official, who was a Stanford classmate of Edwards', tipped him off to the position.

Edwards has signed a two-year contract as principal of the school. "After that, I don't know—it's open ended," he commented.

Accompanying him will be his wife Patricia, sons Bill and Bruce and daughter Peggy. Attending the Academy will be Bill and Peggy; Bruce will enter an American elementary school there.

Edwards taught in Humboldt county for three years before coming to Carmel in 1952.

Born in Berkeley, he was raised in southern California. Entering UCLA, he transferred to Berkeley and earned his BA at UC there. He took his MA degree at Stanford.

UNDER THE OAKS & AMONG THE CACTI

By Mildred Hattan

When the liner Queen Mary docked on St. Patrick's Day, included on the passenger list was Mrs. Margaret Wybrants of Hove, Sussex, England, who was enroute to Carmel Valley for a visit (and they hope an extended one) with her daughter Carol and family (Mrs. and Mrs. Roger Winslow of Country Club Drive). It was the first meeting for Mrs. Wybrants and her 11-month-old grandson, Paul, and the first time since 1964 that she had seen her granddaughter, Kerry.

Kerry, who was four years old on the 16th waited to share her birthday party with her grandmother who helped with the arrangements for the charming birthday tea for some of Kerry's playmates. Enjoying the afternoon of fun and games were Kim and Jeff Morgan, Brett Graham, Jenny Kynch, Zane De Amaral, Eric Rasmussen, Lisa Gardner, and Kerry's brother, Paul.

A "Koffee" following the Sunday services at the Carmel Valley Community Chapel was dedicated to four members of the parish who have contributed many hours of service on the board of directors, the Thrift Shop, editing the bulletin, the Chapel Guild and numerous other positions. It will be difficult to replace Dorothy Caton, Bessie Irwin, Nina Freeman, and Mildred Eastman who are leaving soon to make their home in Walnut Creek.

Hosting the social hour which gave church members an opportunity to wish the four special friends much happiness in their new home were the Board of Directors with Mrs. William Wood as chairman. Other members assisting were Don Brill, Cmdr. G.H. Katzmman, Walter Mauzey, Mrs. James Ziegler, Louis Gardner, Miss Elmira Davis, Mrs. Edgar Colvin and Dr. S.N. Trevino. Pouring were Mrs. Trevino and Mrs. Katzmman.

Jim Large of Upper Circle replaced John Shephard last week on the Central Committee of the Monterey County Republicans. The appointment was made at the monthly meeting where plans were discussed for the dinner for Gov. Ronald Reagan to be held in June at the Corral de Tierra Golf and Country Club.

David J. Preve who attended Valley and Carmel schools, received his commission as an Army second lieutenant, March 20, when he graduated from Officer Candidate School at Fort Benning, Ga. His father, Frank J. Preve, and David's wife, Barbara, shared the proud moment of each pinning a bar to the new officer's uniform.

A reception followed in the Officer's Club. David brought Barbara home on his 15-day leave and she will remain in Carmel with her parents during his advanced training period at Fort Gordon, Ga. He will then be assigned to the 30th Military Police Bn. at the Presidio in San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Preve Sr. who lived next to Wolters Market for nine years, have recently moved from their home on Los Arboles to Carmel.

Lt. and Mrs. William Nelson hosted the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department Saturday night at a wild boar potluck barbecue at their home on Lower Circle. The pig had been donated to the firemen by Leo Berta.

Pet of the week

"CHAMP" is quite a boy. At three months he is playful, intelligent and friendly with everyone, especially children.

He's mostly Keeshond, that newly-popular (in these parts) breed of dog that grows tall enough to please people who don't want a small dog and short enough for people who don't want a big dog. He looks rather like a small German shepherd wearing spectacles and a curly tail.

People have been admiring him at the SPCA Animal Shelter and one day soon someone ought to take him home and make a fine pet of him. His address is 2099 David, Monterey, where calling hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily except Thursday and Sunday.

COL. GEORGE FLETCHER, the "gambler" piano player and Mrs. Robert Work get in the mood for the "Pops" concert Sunday, at the Fairgrounds. Entertainment will begin at 2 p.m. when the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of John Gosling, will play the popular songs from "Showboat." Gates will open at 12 so that families may plan a picnic lunch or use the Mark Thomas Snack Bar service. In addition to "Showboat," such old-time favorites as "The Sidewalks of New York," "The Bowery," and "Pizzicato Polka" will be presented.

G. Chappell- C.W. Van Horn star at Circle

The leading role of a retired French general who fancies himself quite a toreador with the ladies, will be Dr. C.W. Van Horn's next with the Community Theatre when it opens its production of "The Waltz of the Toreadors" at the Circle Theatre April 21.

Gertrude Chappell will co-star.

This play by Frenchman Jean Anouilh, the unpronounceable author of "Becket," "The Lark," and "Antigone," won the New York Critics Circle Award for the best play by a foreign playwright.

"Toreadors" will play Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights at 8:30. Reservations may be made at 624-2660.

Musical satire on war to open at MPC theatre

"Oh What a Lovely War"—a musical satire first produced by Joan Littlewood's Theatre Royal Workshop, London, will be presented April 21, 22, 26 to 29 in Monterey Peninsula College's Little Theatre on Campus.

A student cast directed by drama instructor Morgan Stock will stage the production, with many playing or singing multiple roles.

Richard Gardner will appear as the Kaiser and a German office, for instance. Other starring several parts are Rick Wolf, Ron Guillemette, Mike Renyer, Lex North, Jim LeSage, Sam Mercurio, John Rousseau, Rod Sibley, Anita Whitaker and Kathey Stoney.

Terry Gardner, Arlene Turquesa and Colista Leone will concentrate on playing one role each; Nick Hovick, who has played leading roles at MPC and Community Theatre productions, will be master of ceremonies.

New Jean Kellogg Gallery to open in Carmel Valley Village Saturday

The Jean Kellogg Gallery will open its doors Saturday at 3 p.m. in the Village Plaza on Delfino Place. It will be operated by Mrs. Jean Kellogg Dickie, painter and etcher, who lives with her husband, James, a writer and illustrator of children's books, on Storey Road.

The Dickie's moved to the Valley from Carmel Highlands three years ago.

Mrs. Dickie is the recipient of the John Phelan award in graphic arts and her etchings illustrate a limited edition of Robinson Jeffers' epic poem, "The Loving Shepherdess."

Her gallery will emphasize the graphic arts, quite naturally, but it will also feature painting, sculpture and constructions of local artists as well as some from abroad.

Song writer at MPC this Friday

Richard Masten, poet and songwriter, will read his poetry and sing some of his later songs Friday, April 21, noon to 1 p.m. in the Monterey Peninsula College music hall. Both students and the general public are invited without charge.

A native Californian, Masten, with his wife and four children, makes his home in the Big Sur area. He was educated in private schools, Pomona College and San Jose State College and traveled in Europe for two years of art study. He returned to Carmel in the early 1950's to write and see produced five musical comedies in the Forest Theater.

Then began a ten-year stint as a Hollywood song writer and publisher. Working in the rock and roll, country and Western fields of popular music, he wrote for Columbia Records and was signed as a contract writer with Warner Bros.

Suggested walkways for Carmel Valley Road in Village

CV CHAMBER OF COMMERCE last Wednesday backed the CV Village Committee's tentative plan for walkways in the Village. Above is a sketch of a suggested initial section for a block along the south side of Carmel Valley Rd. from the telephone building to the Phillips 66 station. The county has agreed to finance rolled curbing for the outside of the proposed eight-foot walkways and crushed granite for a base of the walks themselves; the county would also extend paving of the road to the curb. Other financing for a redwood header along the outside of the walks and for asphalt surfacing of them would be necessary. Pres. Bob Kvenild of the Village Committee emphasized that the proposal is only in the explanatory stage.

Under the title "Castelgar Sweepstakes," golfing men and ladies of Hacienda Carmel will engage in a best ball, match play tournament at Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club during the next three weeks.

Committee members Frank Baker, Ted Hill and George Salter have paired up the players who will compete for the privilege of playing in the third 18 hole match for the Hacienda Carmel best ball championship, during the week starting May 1.

A "treasure" sale held recently under the chairmanship of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Uhlenberg found new homes for many "treasures" and offered residents a wide variety of succulent and cactus plantings and a selection from many handiwork, cake and cookie items. Items not sold during the day were donated to local organizations to assist their charity operations.

Mr. and Mrs. George Salter recently returned from an air tour of South America where George completed another segment of his golf safari by playing golf in every South American country, usually in the capital city. Included was a round at over 12,000 feet altitude.

George has now played golf in each of our fifty states, most of the Canadian provinces, and all South American countries where Pan American could find a course for him to play.

The maritime provinces of eastern Canada are next on the "Salter Safari."

MONTEREY

Featuring the favorite recipes of local cooks.

Do you have an abundance of Girl Scout cookies at your house? If so, Cadet Troop 2158 led by MRS. HESTER AUSTING has some good advice on how to use them in delectable family or company desserts.

And if you haven't bought any yet, the older girls (junior high and high school age) will be out this weekend in an all-out attempt to sell every last box and wind up the annual cookie sale in a blaze of glory.

Need we remind you that profits from the sale will be put to good use?

Even if you don't need cookies to help fill lunchboxes, you may want to use them to create an Apple Peanut Butter Crumble, or easy Mint Fudge or a Butter Pecan Cake, all guaranteed delicious by this troop "tasting committee" which met for an enthusiastic session last week.

They were JANE CHALKNEY, PAT BRENNON, LYNNE HALLEY, HOLLY IRWIN, JANE AUSTING, DEBBY NYSTROM, LORISSA ROB-INSON, GINNY SMITH and LISA SMITH.

Doubling as tasters and cooks were JOANNE COSS, KATHY Mc-ELDOWNNEY, NAOMI NORWICK and JENNI ELDRIGE.

BUTTER PECAN CAKE (Makes 24 servings)

3 T. butter or margarine	1/4 cup chopped pecans
1/4 cup sugar	1 package yellow cake mix
24 butter-flavored shortbread
Girl Scout cookies

Preheat oven to 350. Melt butter over low heat of burner in 9 x 13-inch pan. Remove from heat. Sprinkle sugar evenly over butter. Arrange cookies, upside down, over sugar. Sprinkle with pecans; set aside. Prepare cake mix according to directions on label. Turn into prepared pan, spreading evenly. Bake 40 to 45 minutes or until cake springs back when lightly touched. Turn out immediately onto serving tray. Serve warm or cooled.

EASY MINT FUDGE (Makes about 36 pieces)

1 2/3 cups ground mint Girl Scout cookies	1 cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces
1 cup chopped walnuts	3/4 cup evaporated milk
2 cups miniature marshmallows	1/2 cup sugar
1/4 tsp. salt

Combine ground cookies and walnuts; set aside. Butter 8-inch square pan. Combine marshmallows, chocolate pieces, milk, sugar and salt in heavy saucepan. Bring to rolling boil, stirring constantly. Boil and stir for 3 minutes. Turn into pan and spread evenly. Chill until firm. Cut into squares.

APPLE PEANUT BUTTER CRUMBLE (Makes 8 to 10 servings)

1 package peanut butter sandwich Girl Scout cookies	1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
4 cups pared fresh apple slices	1 tsp. cinnamon
1/4 cup dark brown sugar

Preheat oven to 375. Break or cut cookies into small pieces. Combine with apple slices, brown sugar, butter and cinnamon, mixing well. Turn into 8-inch square pan or 1 1/2-quart casserole. Bake 20 to 25 minutes or until apple slices are tender. Serve warm or cooled.

You will find different recipes on each variety of cookie box. The girls particularly recommend that you try Cherry Crumble Pie made with shortbread cookies and cherry pie filling, and Neopolitan Dessert made with cream-filled cookies, gelatin and frozen strawberries.

DON MEHARRY, a student of Warren Fishburn (right), teacher at Tularcitos School, is the proud winner of the fifth grade award in the annual D.A.R. American History essay contest. The subject was Famous American Naval Battles and Don chose to write on Midway Island. More important than the historical facts, he felt, was the philosophy of "will power" when things looked bleakest, that carried on in this battle just as during other historical battles of our forefathers. Although U.S. history is studied in the fifth grade, they have not reached the chronological time of World War II, so Don had extensive research work to do.

Young musicians to tour county

Excitement mounted this week for members of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra who are preparing for their fourth annual concert tour that will cover over 500 miles.

More than 50 young musicians will make the two-day bus trip to present programs at seven elementary schools. They leave from Monterey High School at 8 a.m. on April 20 and their itinerary includes performances in San Ardo, King City, Soledad, Gonzales, Chualar, Spreckles and Moss Landing.

Conductor John Gosling announced that the group will play music by Borodin, Beethoven, Leroy Anderson and Edward Grieg. Two young soloists—Jane Griner and Ben Hudson, will be featured in the first movement of "Concerto for Two Violins" by Bach.

Then the young musicians will be taken to San Francisco where they will be guests of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra at a special rehearsal.

Col. A.L. Friedenthal and Maurice Stoney formed the prize-winning partnership to take the first place honors at the monthly masterpoint tournament of the Valley Bridge Club. Other winners, Tuesday night, at the Community Center were Mrs. Dale Vandervort and Mrs. John Hudelson in second place, and Mrs. Howard Vail and Mrs. R.S. Stoney in third place.

It is a pleasure to welcome home from the hospital and add to the recovery list the following Valleyites: Mrs. Loris Johnson who had been a patient at Salinas Memorial Hospital; Mr. Verne Busick of the Blue Sky Lodge, who was released from the Monterey Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Busick who are guests from Orleans, Ind., are extending their visit in the Valley with their son and family, the Larry Busicks of River Road.

Mrs. William (Beulah Karney) Powers who was able to return to her El Caminito Road home after a stay at the Skyline Convalescent Hospital.

Miss Mary Harris, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harris, has been a patient at the Community Hospital, and Miss M'Liz De Amaral, daughter of Mrs. Patricia De Amaral, underwent surgery at the Fort Ord Hospital for a broken elbow.

Mr. and Mrs. Basil Frobisher, Piedras Blancas, welcomed a visit last week from Olga's nephew and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Roman Pijanowski of Pittsburgh, Pa. It was the first trip to California for the eastern couple who are making a month's tour of the state, and it was the first time in ten years that the foursome had seen each other.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dorff of Glen Ridge, N.J., were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paul G. Edwards of Laurel Drive April 5 to Saturday, April 8.

The Edwards entertained at a bridge luncheon for 14 on Friday in honor of Mrs. Loring Warner of Robles del Rio.

Lionettes present air mattress to hospital

MRS. THEO MIRANI (left) recognized the need for a circulating air mattress for the patients at Carmel Convalescent Hospital. She presented the idea of contributing one to her fellow Carmel Valley Lionettes. Last week Mrs. Mirani represented the Lionettes who gave the mattress to Mrs. Ritchie Patterson, administrator, and Mrs. Barbara Volker, supervising nurse, at the Convalescent Hospital. It will be of particular benefit to the patient who needs special care to prevent breakdown of the skin.

'Parents Without Partners' chapter formed on Peninsula

Strong winds and rain did not deter a large group of men and women from attending the opening meeting of "Parents Without Partners" Thursday, March 30th, at the Monterey Library.

Mr. Richard Bennett, acting chairman, introduced Mrs. Sally Spray of Palo Alto, who is on the national board of the organization and a member of the Palo Alto chapter of over two hundred members. PWP, organized in 1958, has a national membership of over 25,000.

Mrs. Spray told of the activities of PWP and said it is basically an educational organization. The various activities aid the single parent to cope with problems that must be met in a "single-parent" home.

Discussion groups are planned only for the widowed, or the divorced or separated. Monthly educational programs with professional speakers and panelists talk on subjects such as "How to Live as a Single Parent," and "Parent-Child Relationship."

Richard Bennett told the group that a minimum of fifteen persons was required to start a chapter of "Parents Without Partners," and a total of 72 signed up to form a Monterey Peninsula Chapter of PWP.

The last Thursday evening of every month was selected as the regular meeting date.

Among those responsible for organizing the group are Rev. David Hill of All Saints' Episcopal Church of Carmel, Miss Henrietta Wilhelm of the Family Counseling Agency of Monterey, and Mrs. Janice Niebel.

The next meeting will be held on April 27 at 8 p.m., location to be announced.
